This is pretty close to the original published book, but there will be some formatting differences since I only seem to have saved it as a Microsoft Word file and not as a PDF. The table of contents was entered manually at the time, so some of the numbers may be off now. The content is exactly the same.

Introduction

by Gary Will

Through most of pro wrestling's history, its championships have been held by a "who's who" of the talent who made their way to the top of the profession.

As the 1900s came to a close, the lists of the century's best or most influential pro wrestlers consisted largely of champions who held significant titles. Lou Thesz, Ric Flair, Rikidozan, El Santo, Jimmy Londos, Strangler Lewis, Hulk Hogan, Frank Gotch, and other members of the sport's pantheon are names you will find featured prominently in these pages.

There have been exceptions. Some wrestlers had an appeal that transcended titles. Gorgeous George was a box office draw in many territories and a significant force in pro wrestling without holding a title—or even being considered a serious world title contender. Andre the Giant did briefly hold the WWF title but was a huge draw everywhere in the world without being a title holder.

But Andre and Gorgeous George clearly were exceptional performers. In most cases, the elite talent of the sport spent their prime years holding or challenging for a title.

Titles losing significance in wrestling boom

This fourth edition of Wrestling Title Histories comes at a time when the resurgence of the WWF has created one of pro wrestling's cyclical peaks in popularity in North America.

While it's a matter of debate whether wrestling is "hotter than it's ever been before," as the media tend to report, there's no denying that watching pro wrestling on TV has become a Monday night fixture for more than 10 million people each week in the United States. A book written by a professional wrestler was, the number one best selling non-fiction book in the U.S., according to the New York Times. As we write this, a second wrestling autobiography has just become a certified bestseller. Wrestling-related videos and even CDs have also been selling at impressive rates, and the WWF went public in 1999 with its shares trading on the Nasdaq stock exchange.

At the same time, titles have probably never been so insignificant in the current North American pro wrestling scene. The world title means very little in either the WWF or WCW. Even fans would have a difficult time recalling who the current champions are—and it's no wonder. The WWF title changed hands more times in 1999 than it did in the 1960s and 70s combined. The WCW title changed hands almost as many times in 1999 as the NWA title did in the 20 years from 1960-80. It seems that almost every show of any significance will include a title change and it's impossible to keep up.

In 1999, the WWF's two major singles titles were won by a non-wrestler and a woman (after the cut-off point for this book, the WCW world cruiserweight title was held by a woman and a TV writer), while the six men who held the WCW title in 1999 were all in their 40s or 50s.

The title no longer stays on a hot performer—and with the injury rates as high as it now is, it would be foolhardy to make an entire promotion center around a single performer to the degree that was possible during Hulk Hogan's five-year reign in the mid 1980s. The most popular wrestler in the late 1990s was Stone Cold Steve Austin, who has never held the WWF title for more than three months at a time.

There's no sign that titles are about to return to their glory years in the United States, but given the cyclical nature of the business, we might get to see the day come again when being a champion means something significant.

Pro wrestling history poorly documented

Whether you see pro wrestling as sport or entertainment, there's probably nothing from either category that's been so popular with a history so poorly documented. You can find comprehensive reference books on films, TV, music, and every sport of any significance, but very little of any substance on pro wrestling. Few comprehensive reference books or histories have ever been attempted.

The poor historical record has a self-perpetuating effect because the lack of documentation makes it easier for wrestlers and promoters to give distorted accounts of the history that get passed along by reporters and writers who don't know any better—and who apparently leave their skepticism at the door when it comes to pro wrestling interviews.

We've been left with a cardboard history of pro wrestling, much of which is widely believed and repeated frequently by media outlets which don't seem to be concerned about accuracy when the subject is something they see as being as frivolous as pro wrestling. According to these accounts, pro wrestling history goes something like this:

Pro wrestling was a small-time entertainment playing smoke-filled legion halls for the gullible flotsam of society until the 1980s when Vince McMahon decided that wrestling would be openly presented as entertainment. Ted Turner, seeing the popularity of the WWF product, started his own promotion and used his big bucks to lure the top names away from the WWF. Eventually he had a brief moment in the sun while the WWF was distracted by legal difficulties from which it was eventually fully cleared, allowing the company to take back its place as the top promotion. Wrestling is now more popular than it's ever been.

A recent documentary on pro wrestling history seemed to conclude that little of significance happened in the sport between the mid-50s and the Hulk Hogan era in the 1980s because through those 30 years wrestling wasn't shown on network TV in the United States.

Unfortunately, none of this history is true ... except that there is unquestionably less cigarette smoke in the arenas today, due entirely to changes in attitudes towards smoking.

Pro wrestling has actually been—for decades, with occasional peaks and valleys—a major attraction presented in the top sports venues to an audience that is mostly fully aware that what it is watching is entertainment. The biggest change is that those inside today's wrestling business (other than a few throwbacks) now accept the fact that the audience has this awareness.

The more things change ...

Although there have been radical changes in what is presented in the ring as pro wrestling, fans of today would have little difficulty in recognizing many elements of the sport they currently watch in reports from the distant past.

Read through old wrestling magazines, and you'll find that more than 60 years ago there were complaints about non-finishes to matches, comments about how fans start booing if the action dies down even briefly, laments about the lack of actual wrestling in matches, and descriptions in the mainstream press of wrestling being nothing but entertainment. Complaints about how ridiculous pro wrestling TV shows have become go back to wrestling was first on TV 50 years ago.

Even matches in the 19th century often had finishes that today's fans would recognize. When Evan Lewis—the original strangler—defeated Joe Acton in 1887 in one of the earliest title changes in professional "catch-as-catch-can" style wrestling, the reports in the newspaper in Chicago, where the match took place, described how the local gambling house had to take the match off the boards because "we don't take bets on races that have already been run." Apparently, there was hardly anyone willing to bet on the previously unbeatable Acton, and the final straw came when one would-be bettor described in detail how each fall in the match would end.

Setting the record straight ... in part

A book of lists, like Wrestling Title Histories, can only go so far in cutting through the cardboard. There's nothing in this book, for example, to dissuade people of the common misconception that WCW hired Hulk Hogan away from the WWF (it didn't). This book isn't a history of pro wrestling—we're not yet crazy enough to attempt to cross that minefield—but we've been encouraged by the improvements we've seen in the years since Wrestling Title Histories was first published.

When we started this project, National Wrestling Alliance title histories almost always started with a fictitious 1905 match between Gotch and Hackenschmidt. A match that, even if it had taken place, came more than 40 years before the formation of the NWA. (Ironically, in 1999, the current version of the NWA took WCW to task for claiming a longer title lineage than it was entitled to.) At the same time, the organization's first champion, Orville Brown, was never mentioned in lists of NWA champions.

Until a few years ago, Antonio Inoki was never acknowledged in North America as having held the WWF title. When the WWF printed its title histories in one of its magazines a few years ago, it sought permission to use our lists and for the first time recognized Inoki's place in its history to a North American audience.

So we've been pleased to see decades' worth of neglect and misinformation get turned around to the degree it has, and glad that we could give some of the legendary performers in pro wrestling the recognition due to them.

I'm sure we've unknowingly perpetuated some false histories ourselves in these pages, but even with some unavoidable factual inaccuracies, these listings of more than a century's worth of the top stars in professional wrestling—and the cities and countries around the world where they worked—should reveal a business with a rich and deep history that is only hinted at in the popular accounts.

Preface

This is the first new edition of Wrestling Title Histories in five years. It's a project that has spanned a decade, beginning when we each began to compile information independently in 1990.

Every edition has been significantly more comprehensive than the one before it and this edition has more than 60 percent more material than the third edition. Succeeding editions have also been increasingly accurate, with information corrected and appended over the years.

But even with our best efforts, some of the information will be wrong. Pro wrestling has several strikes against it that make it impossible to make this book error free—concocted stories in various media, performers and promoters eager to invent self-serving histories, the different ways to interpret results as simple as "Smith beat Jones to win the title" not to mention reversed decisions and all the other tools in a promoter's toolbox to have their champions lose but hold on to the belt.

There are over 100,000 pieces of data in the book, and even if 99 percent of them are accurate, that still leaves room for a lot of erroneous information.

Some listings require special annotations. Much of the information about the Los Angeles Americas titles came from Japanese wrestling magazines which report far more title changes than actually took place. They still remain the best lists we have.

The title changes in the Memphis-Nashville circuit present another problem as most of the title changes there were repeated at each show around the loop. Sometimes, however, the title lineages in one city ended up being different than in another. The lists in the book mix results from various towns on the circuit.

Lists flagged with "PROMOTER'S HISTORY" are ones where a significant amount of the information—in some cases, all of it—came directly from the promotion. It's not necessarily from the promoter, it may have been supplied by a booker, worker, assistant, ring announcer, and so on. Not all of the information in those lists is necessarily from the promotion—we make whatever corrections and additions we can based on information in magazines, newsletters, and Web sites, so some of the champions we list may be ones the promoters omitted from their lists.

Many independent wrestling groups keep accurate records of its title changes and provided lists to us. Some promoters took their best guesses from memory. And then there are some who completely fabricated their histories—sometimes quite elaborate ones with years' worth of dates and cities for matches that never took place.

The most egregious concoctions have been left out of the book (two different promoters claimed that The Sheik—the original Sheik—held titles in their organizations in the last couple of years and dropped the belts to no-name wrestlers in their groups). And, in some cases, supplied lists have been left out where no corroborating information about the promotion could be found, but there are certainly some dubious lists that made it into print.

If a group you've never heard of claims a long history in several cities with few discontinuities in their titles, you can come to your own conclusions.

Where known, promoters' names are in square brackets in the headings for the first title from their group.

We've also listed the URLs for promotions that have Web sites at their own Internet domains. This was only done for promotions with their own domains—there are many others that have Web sites. There's an extensive list of the Web sites for independent promotions at whoowrestling.com, as well as other sites on the Web.

This will likely be the final edition of Wrestling Title Histories in its current form. We have been able to achieve more than we imagined would be possible when we began this project ten years ago, and for that we'd again like to express our appreciation not only to those listed on the next page, but to all the others who helped out along the way.

Acknowledgements

The documented history of pro wrestling has been preserved and cultivated through the efforts of a small number of people who have done it solely for the love of the sport. This book would never have been possible without the contributions of many wrestling archivists, historians, writers, promoters, and performers.

We'd like to thank all those who freely gave their time and expertise to make this book as comprehensive and accurate as possible (new contributors listed in boldface):

Brandi Mankiewicz and London Publishing kindly shared their information on independent promotions and provided us with copies of Pro Wrestling Illustrated's Arena Reports.

Dave Meltzer's Wrestling Observer Newsletter was the source we consistently turned to when we needed to confirm (or refute) information from the 1990s.

Allan Barrie's whoowrestling.com was a valuable online resource that we used regularly to find independent promotions and results. Hisa Tanabe's puroresu.com provided many updates and revisions to the lists in our previous edition.

And thank you to all the promoters who took the time to maintain and provide accurate records of their belts.

Notes on Notation

Dates: Throughout the book, we use the format YY/MM/DD, so 51 means 1951, 51/06 denotes June 1951, and 51/06/19 would be June 19, 1951.

Wrestlers' names: Usually shown without nicknames—except in cases where the wrestler is known only by that nickname. Wrestlers who were better known under other ring names are shown with that other name in brackets. Occasionally we provide the real name if there may otherwise be confusion, but the name in brackets is almost always a ring name.

The number in square brackets after a wrestler's name indicates the number of times he has held that particular title up to that point (that we are aware of, at least).

Cities: U.S. and Canadian cities are shown with their two-letter state or province codes. Other cities are shown with the country name, unless the title is listed for a particular country, in which case the country is omitted (for example, titles listed in the Mexico section changed hands in Mexico unless otherwise shown).

Symbols:

[...] A gap in the listing where the title changes are not known.

< Title was held, or changed hands, no later than this time. Mostly used when champions are listed in a magazine or program printed at the time indicated, but where the time where he won the belt is not known.

* Questionable. The information on that line is even more suspect than usual. Almost every listing is questionable to some extent. In general, the less detailed the information (for example, inexact date or no city listed), the more questionable the information is.

Unofficial or disputable claim. Usually explained in the notes.

@ Order uncertain. Different titleholders may be known for the same year, for example, but it is not known who held the title before whom.

08/04/03	Frank Gotch Hackenschmidt leaves the ring and the referee awards the match and the title to Gotch	Chicago, IL

13 VACANT
 Gotch, after announcing his retirement several times between late 1911 and 1913, ceases to defend the title after a victory over George Lurich, 13/04/09; he is still recognized as champion by some commentators at the time of his final matches in 1916

15/07/04 Joe Stecher Omaha, NE
 Defeats title claimant Charlie Cutler; Frank Gotch is in attendance; Many sources have Henry Ordemann defeating Jess Westegaard for the title in 1913, Omaha, NE, and Charlie Cutler defeating Ordemann 14/07, Minneapolis, MN. No verification has been found for either match, which may be later attempts to create a more continuous line from Gotch to later champions. Westegaard did defeat Henry Ordemann, 12/01/22, Omaha, NE, for what was billed as the American championship. Stecher loses to John Olin, 16/12/11, Springfield, MA, when he is unable to continue and is later diagnosed as having suffered neuritis in his shoulder; Stecher is still recognized as champion, and Olin doesn't claim the title, but the match is later used to justify a new world title branch (see below)

17/04/09 Earl Caddock Omaha, NE
 Declared the winner when Stecher refuses to return to the ring after the second fall was awarded to Caddock; Caddock serves in the U.S. infantry in WWI, leaving the title inactive; on his return, loses to Joe Malcewicz by referee's decision in a doublecross, 20/01, Utica, NY, but is still recognized as champion

20/01/30 Joe Stecher [2] New York, NY
 Defeats Joe Malcewicz, 20/02/13, to become undisputed champion

20/12/13 Ed "Strangler" Lewis New York, NY
 Managed by Billy Sandow

21/05/06 Stanislaus Zbyszko New York, NY
 22/03/03 Ed "Strangler" Lewis [2] Wichita, KS
 25/01/08 Wayne Munn Kansas City, MO
 Lewis disputes the decision, claiming he was fouled when thrown over the top rope by Munn; he continues to claim the title and keeps the championship "diamond belt"; Lewis wins the rematch, 25/05/30, Michigan City, IN, and is recognized as champion by Billy Sandow and Ed White until unifying his title claim with this lineage in 1928

25/04/15 Stanislaus Zbyszko [2] Philadelphia, PA
 Wins in a doublecross arranged with Tony Stecher against promoters Billy Sandow and Ed White; after the match, Munn is said to have been suffering from tonsillitis, bronchitis, and a high fever when he stepped into the ring

25/05/30 Joe Stecher [3] St. Louis, MO
 28/02/20 Ed "Strangler" Lewis [3] St. Louis, MO
 Lewis is not recognized by the New York and Illinois athletic commissions

29/01/04 Gus Sonnenberg Boston, MA
 Awarded title when Lewis refuses to reenter the ring after being knocked outside with flying tackles; managed by Paul Bowser

30/12/10 Ed Don George Los Angeles, CA
 31/04/13 Ed "Strangler" Lewis [4] Los Angeles, CA
 Defeats title claimant Wladek Zbyszko in Illinois; loses by DQ to Henri Deglane, 31/05/04 in Montreal, QC (see AWA listing below), but still claims title, and is recognized in New York in 1932 (see below)

SEE separate branches below

35/07/30 Danno O'Mahoney Boston, MA
 36/03/02 Dick Shikat New York, NY
 Wins in a doublecross, backed by Jack Pfefer and Al Haft, against Jack Curley Trust; O'Mahoney continues to be recognized by Paul Bowser as AWA champion (see below); the Curley Trust takes Shikat to court to regain control of the champion, but he quickly drops the title and the case is abandoned

36/04/24 Ali Baba (Harry Ekizian) Detroit, MI
 Defeats Shikat again in New York, NY, 36/05/05, and is recognized as champion there; loses to Dave Levin by DQ in Newark, NJ, 36/06/12 but is still recognized as champion (see separate branch)

36/06/26 Everett Marshall Columbus, OH
 Marshall was reigning MWA champion going into this match; he again defeats Baba, 36/11/20, Chicago, for recognition in Illinois

37/12/29 Lou Thesz St. Louis, MO
 Awarded AWA title after this victory (see AWA listing below)

38/02/11 Steve "Crusher" Casey Boston, MA
 Casey is not recognized by the promoters of the National Wrestling Association, who award their title to Everett Marshall in 38/09 (see NWA listing); Casey continues to defend AWA title (see below)

World Heavyweight Title

15/07/04 Joe Stecher Omaha, NE
 See above for background

16/12/11 John Olin Springfield, MA
 Wins when Stecher is unable to continue; doesn't initially claim title

17/05/02 Ed "Strangler" Lewis Chicago, IL
 Billed as a title match, and Lewis claims the title after winning when Olin is unable to continue because of a shoulder injury; special referee: Frank Gotch

17/06/05 Wladek Zbyszko San Francisco, CA
 Not billed as a title match; Zbyszko claims title after winning the only fall in a best-of-three-falls match

17/07/04 Ed "Strangler" Lewis [2] Boston, MA
 Wins when Zbyszko is unable to continue in the third fall; described as a world title win in the paper

17/12/22 Wladek Zbyszko [2] New York, NY
 Pins Lewis in a tournament final and claims title

18/02/08 Earl Caddock Des Moines, IA

World Heavyweight Greco-Roman Title

15/10/25 Alexander Aberg New York, NY
 Defeats Wladek Zbyszko after the two had wrestled to a draw in a tournament final, 15/05/19, New York, NY; in the tournament, competitors did not have to wrestle in greco-roman style, but could fight in catch-as-catch-can style if both contestants agreed

World Heavyweight Title

- 19/03 Wladek Zbyszko
Claims title when Earl Caddock initially retires after serving in WWI
- 19/06 Jack Pesek
Claims title after defeating Zbyszko

NWA National Wrestling Association World Heavyweight Title [Harry Landry, Sam Murbarger, Tom Packs, Ed White+]

- 29/08/23 Dick Shikat Philadelphia, PA
Defeats Jim Londos and is recognized by the wrestling section of the National Boxing Association (NBA), later called the National Wrestling Association
- 30/06/06 Jim Londos Philadelphia, PA
Joe Savoldi pins Londos in a double-cross and is declared the champion, 33/04/07, Chicago, IL, referee: Bob Managoff; Londos claims the title was not at stake, Harry Landry says Londos is still recognized as champion because Illinois is outside of the territory governed by the Association; Savoldi loses to Strangler Lewis, 33/05/15, New York, NY, who in turn loses to Ed Don George, 33/05/17, Boston, MA; Savoldi also loses to Jim Browning in New York; Londos wins New York title, 34/06/25 (see below)
- 35/06/27 Danno O'Mahoney Boston, MA
Recognized at the 1935 annual meeting
- 36/02/16 VACANT
NWA lifts recognition from O'Mahoney after he no-shows a scheduled defence, 36/02/08, Galveston, TX; at their annual meeting in 36/09, the NWA recommends that a tournament be held to determine the champion
- 37/09/13 John Pesek
Awarded when Pesek is the only contender to post a $1,000 bond; he was ordered to meet either Everett Marshall or Bronko Nagurski within six months
- 38/08/17 VACANT
Recognition withdrawn from Pesek, who is still recognized by the MWA
- 38/09/14 Everett Marshall
Awarded at the 1938 annual meeting; the NWA claimed they did not recognize AWA champion Steve Casey because he was out of the country and had only defeated Marshall by DQ in their match on 38/05/25 in St. Louis, MO
- 39/02/23 Lou Thesz St. Louis, MO
- 39/06/23 Bronko Nagurski Houston, TX

AWA American Wrestling Association World Title [Paul Bowser]

- 29/01/04 Gus Sonnenberg Boston, MA
See world title lineage on previous page
- 30/12/10 Ed Don George Los Angeles, CA
- 31/04/14 Ed "Strangler" Lewis Los Angeles, CA
Lewis takes the title from George without the approval of Bowser, in retaliation for Bowser transferring the belt from Sonnenberg to George without the consent of Billy Sandow
- 31/05/04 Henri Deglane Montreal, QC
Wins by DQ after allegedly being bitten by Lewis; most authorities believe Deglane bit himself in the dressing room between the second and third fall, hid the bite, and then pretended to have been bitten by Lewis in the third fall; backed by Paul Bowser and recognized in Boston and Montreal as American Wrestling Association champion; Lewis is still recognized in Illinois and defeats Wladek Zbyszko, 31/11/03, Chicago, IL, to continue recognition there as champion
- 33/02/09 Ed Don George [2] Boston, MA
Wins third fall when Deglane cannot continue after allegedly suffering a broken collarbone
- 35/07/30 Danno O'Mahoney Boston, MA
Wins by countout, special referee: James Braddock; O'Mahoney loses to Dick Shikat in a shoot, 36/03/02 in New York, NY but continues to be recognized as AWA champion; Rudy Dusek declares himself to be champion after a match against O'Mahoney, 36/05/18, Philadelphia, PA, Dusek is DQd by the referee, but the commission reverses the decision the next day; Dusek is not recognized by any promoters or commissions, and his claim to the title ends with a loss to Ivan Managoff, 36/07/30, Washington, DC
- 36/07/13 Yvon Robert Montreal, QC
Robert breaks his leg during a match against Cliff Olsen 36/11/12, Washington, DC; match is declared "no contest," but Olsen later claims title and loses it to Steve Casey 37/02/08, New York, NY

37/12	VACANT

NWA National Wrestling Alliance World Heavyweight Title [Sam Muchnick and many others; title later controlled by Jim Crockett, then Turner Broadcasting's WCW]

48/10	Orville Brown
	Recognized as first champion
49/11/27	Lou Thesz
	Awarded; reigning National Wrestling Association champion, recognized as National Wrestling Alliance champion after Brown is injured in an automobile accident, 49/11/01, before a unification match scheduled for St. Louis, MO, 49/11/25. Leo Nomellini defeats Thesz by DQ in San Francisco, CA, 55/03/22 and is given the title, but the NWA rules titles cannot change hands by DQ
56/03/15	Whipper Billy Watson	Toronto, ON
	Wins by countout; special referee: Jack Dempsey
56/11/09	Lou Thesz [2]	St. Louis, MO
	Edouard Carpentier defeats Thesz, 57/06/14, Chicago, IL, and is announced as the new champion when Thesz cannot continue due to a back injury; NWA later rules the title cannot change hands through an injury and gives the belt back to Thesz; there are some press reports that Carpentier was initially recognized as champion; his victory is subsequently used to legitimize several other title lineages (see Massachusetts, Nebraska, and California sections)
57/11/14	Dick Hutton	Toronto, ON
59/01/09	Pat O'Connor	St. Louis, MO
61/06/30	Buddy Rogers	Chicago, IL
	Killer Kowalski defeats Rogers, 62/11/21, Montreal, QC, when Rogers is pinned after his ankle breaks in the first fall; the NWA doesn't recognize this as a title change because the match had been signed as best-of-3 falls, but Kowalski is billed as champion by Morris Sigel in Houston, TX; often managed by Bobby Davis
63/01/24	Lou Thesz [3]	Toronto, ON
66/01/07	Gene Kiniski	St. Louis, MO
69/02/11	Dory Funk Jr.	Tampa, FL

The Editors

Royal Duncan

For the last 20 years, Royal Duncan has been president of Royal Publishing Company (www.royalpublishing.com), the leading producer of sports program books in the U.S., headquartered in Peoria, Illinois.

In 1984, Royal co-founded Mania Promotions, a company that promoted live pro wrestling events with the World Wrestling Federation, World Championship Wrestling, and the American Wrestling Association. Mania also syndicated pro wrestling and roller derby shows throughout the Midwestern U.S.

Royal has the largest collection of wrestling autographs in the U.S. and has been honored as Collector of the Year by the National Wrestling Collector's Association. He is also on the board of directors of the Cauliflower Alley Club, an international association of wrestlers and boxers of the past and present.

Royal was co-host of a sports talk show on WTAZ-AM in Peoria and his Stoogez restaurant was recognized with a "Taste of Peoria" award.

He is a graduate of Bradley University with a degree in business management and administration.

Gary Will

Gary Will (www.garywill.com) is a technology marketing consultant and writer based in Waterloo, Ontario—one of Canada's fastest growing high-tech hotspots.

A fan of wrestling through the 1970s, his interest in the sport's history was renewed in 1990 with the formation of the Usenet wrestling newsgroup rec.sport.pro-wrestling, where Gary was something of a resident historian for two years.

Since 1997, Gary has been the editor of Waterloo Tech Observer, a monthly e-newsletter covering technology businesses in Waterloo, Ontario. He has also written technology business articles for The Record, the daily newspaper covering the Waterloo area.

In 1996, Gary developed the Worksearch Web site that attracted more than a million visitors annually. Richard Bolles, author of the best-selling What Color is Your Parachute? called Gary "one of the best minds of the job hunting part of the Internet."

Gary holds a bachelor's degree in applied mathematics & statistics and a master's degree in the history and philosophy of science and technology, both from the University of Toronto, where he also worked at the Rotman School of Management.

"The best pro wrestling reference book I've ever seen."

Dave Meltzer, Wrestling Observer Newsletter

From coast-to-coast in North America, to Japan and around the world—from the 19th century to the present—Wrestling Title Histories is the ultimate guide to professional wrestling's greatest champions.

This is the book relied on by wrestling magazines, newsletters, and Web sites around the world as the most comprehensive and accurate chronology of pro wrestling titles.

- Recall all the regional promotions that once thrived across North America—Florida, St. Louis, Dallas, Carolinas, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Toronto, Memphis, and many more.
- Trace the beginnings of today's titles from the WWF, WCW, ECW, NWA, and dozens of independent promotions.
- See the illustrious histories of titles from Japan, and the championships of Mexico and Britain in all weight divisions.

More than 2,000 titles – spanning the century from William Muldoon to The Rock.

"The ultimate argument settler."
